Outline Of Planned Content

½ day induction which will introduce the programme and allow space for delegates to understand the programme, its structure, how they will be assessed and supported. Also what the nature of executive and leadership coaching and mentoring within the candidates' organisations will look like and how this can be measured.

5 x 1 day modules which will build body of leadership and executive coaching and mentoring skills and knowledge.

Modules include substantial amounts of practice and feedback from both tutors and other delegates. Delegates will also participate in coaching demonstrations and practice in both small groups and "goldfish bowl setting" in modules three and four.

Delegates will also be required to practice 20 coaching hours with real clients over the course of the programme and keep a record of their coaching sessions and self reflections.

To further support the learning, coaching development groups will be led by trained facilitators for 4 sessions. The aim will be to move the groups to become self supporting and these will then be there as an ongoing sustainable resource beyond the coaching programme.

Within the 2017 programme there will also be 2 x optional coaching masterclasses dates TBA including such topics as Mindfulness in Coaching and Developing Transformational Teams For Coaching

The Level 7 Programme also includes time with a coaching supervisor and this will be built into the programme.

Assessment methodology:-

- Delegates will be asked to keep a Coaching Reflective Diary to record their coaching practice - this will be monitored by the tutors, and candidates will be given ongoing feedback on their progress. They will need to commit to doing a minimum of 20 coach practice hours in total plus the coach practice on the modules.
- Each candidate will have a personal tutor and be offered 2 x 1 hour tutorials during the programme to assist with the assessment of the diary.
- Practice sessions with feedback will be run on each module and within the coaching development groups
- There will also be a requirement for self directed learning including reading, contribution to group learning online, developing a bank of coaching resources and tools and personal reflection following feedback.
